From the Gentleman's Magazine, for August last.

LETTERS by the last Mail from Germany, dated the 20th Instant, which arrived here the 30th relate, that on the 16th, the Queen of Hungary publish'd an Order for the States of Bavaria to take an Oath of Allegiance to her as their Sovereign, on pain of Confiscation of their Effects, and her Arms are set up in the Room of the Emperor's, who has sent a Protest against all these Proceedings, declaring them null.

On the 20th, the Confederate Army was near Worms and Reichhausen in the Camp which the French lately had, and was to advance to Spire and Frankendale, which the Elector Palatine's Troops had quitted, to make Room for them. The King of Great Britain's Quarters is in the Bishop's Palace at Worms, near 100 Miles from Prince Charles's Army, which was at the same Time near Mullen, 4 Leagues, above Brisac, not far from Switzerland, and the Dutch Troops were then got as far as Frankfort, within eight Leagues of Worms

Marshal De Noailles, it was said, was marching towards Spire to oppose the Allied Army.

Count De Saxe commands an Army in Alsace, which is moving along the Rhine to watch Prince Charles of Lorrain, and oppose his Passage, having placed Forts and Redoubts at proper Distances on the Banks of that River.

From the Gentleman's Magazine, for September last.

A short View of the State of Affairs at the different Courts of Europe in that Month.

CONSTANTINOPLE.

THE Turkish Empire is alarmed thro' its whole Extent by the Approach of Kouli Kan to its Borders, and it is not unlikely that the Christian World may enjoy the Spectacle of the Two greatest Mahometan Powers destroying one another. The Turks have endeavoured to produce a Defection in the Army of their Invaders, by countenancing a Man whom they represent either as the Son or Nephew of the late Schah, and whom they have sent into Asia with an Army and Retinue as Monarch of Persia. How this Stratagem will succeed it is not possible to foresee, since it is not known by us what Veneration the Persians retain for the Race of their former Kings, how they are pleased with the present Government, or how desirous they may be of changing it.

It is a very pleasing Speculation to observe, by what Means the Balance of the World is preserved from Age to Age. Had Kouli Kan attacked the Eastern Frontier of the Turks, when they were attacked by the Russians and Germans in this Part of the World, their Power had probably been irrecoverably broken; and had not the Persians by the Acquisition of the Treasures of India been enabled at this Juncture to fall upon Turky, the Turks might have been drawn down into Hungary, and the House of Austria had been destroyed.

RUSSIA.

The Committee appointed to examine into the late Plot at Petersburgh, having made their Report to the Empress; a few Days after, her Majesty appointed an extraordinary Assembly of the Senate, where she appeared in Person; and rising from her Throne, acquainted that august Assembly with the Occasion of their Meeting. Her Speech, drew Tears from the Eyes of all that heard it. She open'd it with observing, That notwithstanding her Right to the Imperial Diadem, she did not assume it till call'd thereto by the Voice of the whole Nation; that from the Time she was rais'd to the Imperial Dignity, she had ever studied the Welfare of her Subjects; which appeared by her bringing the late War to so glorious a Period, without raising any new Tax; that it was therefore surprizing to her, that there could be among her Subjects any who were desirous of overturning so just, so gentle an Administration, more than of practising against the Person of their Prince, who, in every Judgment remember'd Mercy; and who had always shown, as she still propos'd to shew, that Clemency was the only Prerogative she meant to exercise, in Right of her Imperial Dignity; but that there were such Persons, the Report that should be read would fully prove, from their Examinations, Confessions, Letters address'd to, and written by them, with every other Kind of Evidence, that, perhaps, was ever produced in a Court of Justice. The whole Process was then read, and the Original Papers laid before the Senate, who thereupon pronounced Sentence of Death upon 25 Persons of Distinction, of both Sexes. In Consequence of this Sentence, they were brought out to the Place of Execution, but just as the Executioner was going to perform his Office, a Declaration was read to the Criminals, by which her Imperial Majesty granted them their Lives, and contented herself with banishing them into Siberia for the Rest of their Days.

SWEDEN

The unhappy Kingdom of Sweden is not yet free from the Dread of War and Invasion, which is now threatened by the King of Denmark for the Exaltation of his Son to the Swedish Throne, to which he alledges that he has a Legal Right by the late Choice, and asserts the Invalidity of the subsequent Election; he adds, as another Reason that may justify his Undertaking, the Neglect of procuring at the Treaty of Abo, the Satisfaction that was promised him for the Dutchy of Slefwick, and concludes that he has Reason to believe a great Part of the Swedish Nation not more satisfied with that Treaty than himself. To this it has been answered, as indeed an Answer was not difficult, That the Election of the Prince of Denmark being the Act only of Part of the States cannot be considered as obligatory, that the Approbation given by the States to the Treaty of Abo annulled the Promise, that had been made on Condition that the Articles should not be accepted, that the Swedish Plenipotentiaries earnestly endeavoured to procure Satisfaction for Slefwick, but that the Russians determined to refer it to another Negociation, that whether the Swedes are satisfied with the Peace or not, they only are to judge, and that though they are inclined to Peace, yet if their Country should be invaded with a View of destroying the Balance of the North, they doubt not of being assisted by other Powers no less interested than themselves to obviate such Designs.

The Declaration of the King of Denmark is indeed a Proof how easily Ambition will find Reasons for Invasions, when the Weakness of a Neighbour offers Opportunities. The Settlement of the Queen Waldimar is not mentioned, though, it might afford a better Argument than any that has been produced.

The late Negociation of France with Denmark makes it suspected with good Reason, that the same Power which incited Sweden against Russia, is now animating Denmark against Sweden, and that those Commotions which are threatened by this new Scheme, are chiefly intended by the original Authors to embarrass the Councils of Russia, and detain her Arms by nearer Engagements from assisting the House of Austria; but as the Danger will now be more remote and a small Assistance will enable Sweden to repel the Attempts of Denmark, it is not likely that the Russians will be so much alarmed as to deny those Succours which they are said to have promised.

DENMARK.

The King, that he may be enabled to act vigorously in Support of the Pretenſions of his Son, has ſeized the Capital Stocks of the Funds, with a Promiſe to pay Intereſt for them, and has laid ſeveral new Taxes on the People; Meaſures by which he may probably weaken his Intereſt at Home, at leaſt as much as he will extend it in Sweden, where he will be oppoſed not only by the hereditary Hatred which has long ſubſiſted between the two Nations, (of which the Effect was eminently ſeen, when the Swediſh Peaſants under Count Steinbock put the veteran Army of Denmark to Flight) but by a Body of fifteen Thouſand Ruſſians which the Czarina has promiſed. The Danes, however continue their Preparations and are ſaid to have ſtrengthened themſelves by an Alliance with Pruſſia, but there is Reaſon to hope that the Marriage now certainly concluded of the Prince of Denmark with the Princeſs Louiſa, will add ſo much to the Influence of the King of Great Britain, as may enable him to quiet thoſe Diſturbances, and prevent a Rupture by which the general Intereſt of Europe will be at this Time affected; though it is doubtful, whether if the King of Pruſſia ſhould engage in an Attempt upon Sweden, the Queen of Hungary and her Allies would deſire the Ruſſians to aſſiſt them otherwiſe than by contributing to weaken him.

GERMANY.

The Balance of the War ſtill inclines in Favour of the Queen of Hungary who is become now entirely Miſtreſs of Bohemia by the Surrender of Egra, the Garriſon of which conſiſted of 2453 Men, of whom only 1507 were private Soldiers. By the Terms of Capitulation they were allowed their Baggage, but not their Arms, and though it was granted that they ſhould not be ſent into Hungary, their Officers are not allowed to go into France upon their Parole to which the Auſtrians have been taught to pay very little Regard. Part of the Forces which were before Egra are ordered to reinforce Prince Charles, who is ſtill attempting to paſs the Rhine, a Deſign which he has not yet been able to accompliſh, the Army of the Enemy being not leſs numerous than his own and conſidering themſelves as fighting on their own Ground and defending the Paſſes into their own Country. This Deſign has neceſſarily produced a great Number of falſe Alarms, Stratagems of Amuſement and Countermarches, daring Attempts and warm Engagements. Prince Charles has poſſeſſed himſelf of the Iſle of Rheinwerth, on which he has raiſed Works for his Defence, and from whence he hopes to reach the other Side, while the French are equally confident of driving him back.

The Army of the Allies advances forward, and is ſaid to intend an Attack upon ſome of the French Garriſons, but it is reported by others, that want of Neceſſaries will oblige them to a Battle in a ſhort Time. Their Motions have at leaſt had their Effect, that the Marſhal De Noailles has quitted his Intrenchments behind the River Queich, though it is aſſerted by the French, that he is not retiring before the Allies, but marching to join the Army againſt Prince Charles.

In Lorrain the War has been carried at leaſt in Declarations to a Degree of Fury unknown in this Part of the World, and Extermination rather than Conqueſt ſeems to be intended. The French have publiſhed an Edict, in which it is order'd, That if any of the Huſſars that have entered their Dominions under Mentzel can be taken, they ſhould be immediately hanged; and Mentzel has in Return declared with equal Juſtice and Spirit, that if any Officer among the French ſhall dare to execute thoſe Orders, he will ſpare none that ſhall fall into his Hands, whether Soldiers or Inhabitants.

In Bavaria the Arms of Auſtria ſtill prevail. The Garriſon of Ingolſtadt having agreed to ſurrender at the End of this Month, if they receive in the mean Time no Relief, which, (though they ſeem to expect it,) is certainly not poſſible to be given them. There have been indeed ſome Commotions raiſed by the Affection of the People for their Prince, who was remarkably popular, and whom his Subjects, however they have been impoveriſhed and harraſſed by his unjuſt and imprudent Conduct, are yet unwilling to renounce. But the Queen of Hungary having required a formal Acknowledgment of her Sovereignty, which has been hitherto made without Oppoſition, tho' not without Reluctance, which ſome have been imprudent enough to expreſs ſo publickly, that the Rules of Policy made it neceſſary to puniſh them.

CHARLES-TOWN, Jan. 2, 1744.

On Thurſday laſt arriv'd here Captain Richardſon from Bermuda, who informs us, that the Night before he left that Place, two Veſſels came in there in a ſhort Paſſage from Curacoa, by the Maſters whereof he was told, that their High Mightineſſes the States General of the United Provinces had declar'd War againſt France on the 28th of November, N S but his immediate Departure prevented his Enquiry into further Particulars as to the Occaſion. Some Days after Capt Richardſon left Bermuda, he met with another Veſſel from Curacoa, from the Maſter of which he had the ſame Information
